

THE ROARING TWENTIES (1919 - 1929) – LESSON 8

Objective: To examine the methods used to increase the economic boom in America.

New Goods for Sale

- In the 1920's, people began to purchase items they couldn't afford through the use of installment buying, or buying on credit.
- Installment buying increased the demand for goods, while consumer debt increased.

Advertising

- In the 1920's businesses used advertising to convince consumers that they would be happier if they bought their product.

"We want a Westclox, too"

THEY know what they want, what they need... timekeeping accuracy, dependability... a clock that will run on time... an alarm that will ring right on the dot. And they know that they will get it in Westclox. Through years of trustworthy and helpful service, Westclox have definitely demonstrated their reliability, proven their worth and won the confidence of millions.

You, too, will find exactly what you want in size, design and in price. Standard models or handsome new deluxe models that are securely built on a sturdy, artistic, felt-cushioned base. Lustrous nickel or colors of exquisite beauty. Plain dials or luminous dials that can be read in the dark. There are steady or repeating alarms... some toned especially for heavy sleepers, others for light sleepers. And there is Tiny Tim, an attractive and faithful little timepiece without alarm. A Westclox for any room in the home.

Pocket Ben, the Westclox Watch, answers every "want" of men who demand good timekeeping, good looks and economy.

Dealers everywhere recommend Westclox. They know that Westclox variety meets individual requirements and that Westclox quality supplies the universal need of timekeeping dependability. Westclox prices range from $1.50 to $5.00.
